The Sports Saturday

On Saturday next the postponed sports under the auspices of the Bowden Brass Band will be held. All arrangements have been made by the Sports Committee to pull off the sports successfully that big day. Besides the Crossfield-Bowden League game, Mayton and Grahamston districts will play a match on the diamond. At 10.30 the band will meet the Crossfield team at the station and escort them to the hotel after which the band will again assemble there and escort the four teams to the baseball park, where at 2.30 Crossfield and Bowden will play. These two teams played the closest game of this season in the Rosebud League last Tuesday at Crossfield and this match will be a good one. The other athletic events will be keenly contested if all the local boys enter who are talking about doing so now.

Member Visits Bowden

The Honorable Duncan Marshall was in town on Tuesday and made a tour of the country west of here. His trip was one of inspection for the purpose of finding out where money granted each year by the Legislature, for improvements, should be most profitably spent. Messrs O E Chamblain and J I Brewster accompanied Mr Marshall on the trip. The residents of Red Lodge had petitioned the Honorable member for a new bridge across the Little Red Deer river on the road allowance directly west of here and Mr Marshall expressed himself in favor of the crossing. In the evening a visit was also made to the government drainage ditch southwest of Bowden. Mr Marshall was pressed for time and was forced to leave on the evening train but promised to return on another visit in the near future.

Emma Gray is spending a couple of weeks with Mrs Scarf.

The boys are doing government work on the coulee east of here.

L Hawkins is spending a week or so with M Ball before leaving for Calgary.

Last Friday evening Betchton school was the scene of a very successful dance. The ball was given in honor of Mr Percy Turnbull and family and Mr George Hawkins' family, who leave Betchton district in a few weeks for Calgary where they will reside in future.

Nesbit

Mr W Bookless had the misfortune to lose a valuable colt last week.

Quite a number from this district attended Mr Hawkins' sale on Tuesday.

Mr Sunnes and daughter, Cora, spent Sunday with Mr and Mrs Ball.

Several of the Nesbit young folks attended Messrs Hawkins' and Turnbulls' farewell dance given in the Betchton schoolhouse on Friday night last and report a splendid time.

Everybody from here intends to turn out to see how brilliantly the Nesbit constellation will shine forth on the 3rd at Bowden as they are to play the Mayton team again on that date. We understand the game is to be played sometime during the forenoon and hope all the "Stars" will be out this time.

The "Stars" played the Mayton team at Mayton Saturday afternoon. The game resulted in a score 8-11 in favor of Mayton. The "Stars" were handicapped by two of their players failing to turn up. It is the writer's opinion that they played very well considering that they had practised less than half a dozen times. Quite a large crowd from in and around Mayton turned out to watch the game, also a few from here.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of the uterus, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking your medicine. It has also helped other women to whom I have recommended it."—Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ontario.

Another Cure

Harvey Bank, N. B.—I can highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any suffering woman. I have taken it for female weakness and painful menstruation and it cured me. —Mrs. DEVERE LARBOUR.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Mr. Cityman is hereby informed in response to his inquiry, that wrinkles on a cow's horn are not caused by trouble or worry.

It Will Prevent Ulcerated Throat.—At the first symptoms of sore throat, which presages ulceration and inflammation, take a spoonful of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Add a little sugar to it to make it palatable. It will allay the irritation and prevent the ulceration and swelling that are so painful. Those who were periodically subject to quinsy have thus made themselves immune to attack.

No Desire For Food

The Stomach Seems Played Out and the Appetite Fickle

The Digestive System is Overloaded With Poisons—Relief Comes With the Use of

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Weak stomach, loss of appetite, indigestion and all the accompanying symptoms of pains, aches, fatigue and lack of energy, tend to make the springtime anything but joyous for many people.

The system is full of poisons, the blood is impure, the liver and kidneys have been overworked in an effort to remove the waste matter and have failed. This accounts for the biliousness, the constipation, the backaches and headaches.

How is this condition to be overcome? There is no quicker or more certain way than by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This treatment gets the liver and kidneys in action at once and insures regular movement of the bowels.

The poisonous waste matter which has been clogging the digestive system is removed and the organs of digestion are enabled to properly perform their duties.

Appetite is sharpened, you eat your food with a relish, the stomach is strengthened, the vital organs get the nourishment they require, and vigor and energy are restored.

There is no reason for anyone who knows of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to have impure blood or to suffer the annoyance of tired, spring feelings. One pill a dose, 25c. a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Good Advice

A colored man was brought before a police judge charged with stealing chickens. He pleaded guilty and received sentence, when the judge asked how it was he managed to lift those chickens right under the window of the owner's house when there was a dog in the yard.

"Hit wouldn't be no use, Judge," said the man, "to try to 'splain dis thing to you' all. Ef you was to try it you like as not would get yer hide full of shot an' get no chickens, nuther. Ef yo' want to engage in any rascality, Judge, yo' better stick to de bench, whar' yo' am familiar."

A Lucky Stop

Little Johnny, who had been praying for some months for God to send him a baby brother, finally became discouraged.

"I don't believe God has any more little boys to send," he told his mother, "and I'm going to stop asking for one."

Early one morning, not long after this, he was taken into his mother's room to see two boys who had arrived in the night. Johnnie regarded them thoughtfully for some minutes.

"Golly," he remarked finally, "it's a good thing I stopped praying when I did."

TRIED AT LAST WHEN OTHERS ALL FAILED

AND DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED THE POSTMASTER

F. Tipples had suffered for years and spent hundreds on doctors and medicines, but found the real cure at last.

Tipples P.O., Que. (Special).—If Dodd's Kidney Pills have a more enthusiastic friend anywhere in Canada than Mr. F. Tipples, postmaster here, we would like to hear from him. And Mr. Tipples is always ready to tell why he praises the great Kidney Remedy.

"After recovering from an attack of Grippe," the postmaster says, "I took a pain in my back. I suffered for nearly three years and it kept growing worse all the time. I was attended by all the doctors around but got no relief, and I got so bad I had to keep to my bed. After spending about $200 on doctors and medicines I gave up all hope.

"One day I told my wife to go and get me a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and that would be the last medicine I would try. After using about half the box I began to feel better, so I kept on taking them. When I had taken two boxes I was able to get up, and ten boxes cured me completely."

He Got Them

He—What's a wooden wedding?
 She—It's when folks have been married five years and their friends give them presents.

He—They ought to give them a pension. What sort of presents do they give them?

She—Oh, they give them all sorts of wooden things—spoons and potato mashers and rolling pins.

He—I got all those the first year I was married.

In Line

An Irishman, who hadn't travelled much, stepped up to the ticket office in the Pennsylvania Station the other day to buy a ticket. Just ahead of him was a woman who said to the man inside:

"Elizabeth, New Jersey, single."

The Irishman, overhearing this, thought it was some new regulation and he said to the man when it came his turn:

"Mike Murphy, Chicago, married."

"Yes, I'm saving for a home."

"I can't save any money. How do you manage it?"

"By getting my wife to go without things. She thinks we're saving for an automobile."

Ask for Minard's and take no other.

A Threat

A fat colored lady was a passenger on a street car and she had in her arms a baby which was nursing. When the conductor came by, the baby, fascinated by the shining buttons on his coat, dropped its "dinner" and stared at the conductor. This annoyed the colored mammy, and she said, in a scolding tone:

"Look yere, you Rastus, you'd better take your dinner, or I'll shore gib it to de conductor."

A sense of humor is useful to a man, but a sense of honor will get him much farther.

Perplexed

A New Yorker with a large family of children was called home from business the other day by the pleasant news that his wife had given birth to twins.

One of his little daughters met him at the door.

"Come in, papa!" she cried. "Come in and see the new baby"—she stopped perplexed and added—"and—and the other one."

For years Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator has ranked as the most effective preparation manufactured, and it always maintains its reputation.

A Generous Gift

"You may say what you like against young ministers, but I have nothing but praise for our young pastor," the pompous Mr. Brown remarked, as he passed out of the church. "Nothing but praise!"

"So I observed," dryly retorted the deacon who had passed the plate.

THE ONLY MEDICINE FOR THE BABY

The only medicine a mother should give her little ones is one she can give and feel absolutely safe that not the slightest harm will result—a medicine that is guaranteed strictly free from injurious drugs. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets—every box is sold under such a guarantee and the mother may feel perfectly safe in giving them to even the new-born babe. Concerning them Mrs. Albert E. Wood, London, Ont., says: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets all that is claimed for them. My baby has had them from birth and will take them eagerly. I am sure there is no better medicine for little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

$3,600

in Cash Prizes for Farmers

Your Photograph May Win a Prize

AMONG the prizes we are offering in our big Prize Contest is one of $100.00 (Prize "C") for the farmer in each Province who furnishes us with a photograph showing the best of any particular kind of work done on his farm during 1911 with "CANADA" Cement. For this prize, work of every description is included.

Now just as soon as you finish that new silo, barn, feeding floor or dairy, that you've been thinking of building, why not photograph it and send the picture to us? The photograph doesn't necessarily have to be taken by a professional or an expert. In fact, your son's or your daughter's camera will do nicely. Or, failing this, you might use the kodak of your neighbor's son nearby. In any event, don't let the idea of having a photograph made deter you from entering the competition. Particularly as we have requested your local dealer to help in cases where it is not convenient for the farmer to procure a camera in the neighborhood. By this means you are placed on an equal footing with every other contestant. Get the circular, which gives you full particulars of the conditions and of the other three prizes. Every dealer who sells "CANADA" Cement will have on hand a supply of these circulars—and he'll give you one if you just ask for it. Or if you prefer, you can use the attached coupon—or a postcard will do—send it to us and you'll receive the complete details of the contest by return mail.

If you haven't received your copy of "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete," write for that, too. It's a finely illustrated book of 160 pages full of useful and practical information of the uses of concrete.

Write us to-night, and you'll receive the book and the circular promptly.

Do not delay—sit right down—take your pen or pencil, and fill out the coupon NOW.

PROVED ITS INVALUABLE WORTH.
 KEHO, ALTA., 10-10-10.
 The International Stock Food Co., Toronto, Ont.—Gentlemen: I feel in honor bound to offer you my testimonial in favor of your stock food. I have used it faithfully this summer and proved its invaluable worth. It made my pigs grow, the results were simply marvelous. I would not be without it for anything. My horses got a very nasty distemper cough in the spring, but the food cleared it completely out of their system and they went through the Spring work fine and came out of it rolling fat. Please duplicate my last order. Mrs. Coe requests me to tell you that your Poultry Food is excellent, that feeding your Poultry food doubles the quantity of eggs; in fact, it could not be better for egg production and keeping the fowl healthy.—Yours sincerely,
 (Sgd.) ALF. E. COE.

THURSDAY, JUNE 1ST 1911

We are glad to see that two of the buildings on Main street are receiving much needed coats of paint and the effect to the appearance of the street is very noticeable. Next Saturday is the towns holiday and it behooves all the residents to have their properties decorated with as many flags and as much bunting as possible. An effort of all the citizens should be made to clean up the front yards also.

We wish to call the attention of the farmers of the dangerous practice of leaving gopher poison in such a way that dogs can get hold of it. A week or so ago Mr Joe Corsiatto had a dog which he valued very highly poisoned in a rather mysterious way. Whether the animal got hold of gopher poison or not it is hard to say but Mr Corsiatto is of the opinion that it was done maliciously. There is a heavy penalty for killing a dog in Alberta unless it proves dangerous and those who practise this mean system of revenge are leaving themselves liable to a heavy fine should they be apprehended and convicted.

The Monetary Times on the Oliver Case

One of the penalties of being Cabinet Minister is to suffer personal attack. Whether a man be pure or poisoned politically, he can never shake himself of the taunts of others' viciousness, jealousy and ambition. The Monetary Times has always been, and is, a non-partisan journal, fighting only for the principles in which it believes, and irrespective of politics. We feel the more regret, therefore, in seeing the name of the Honorable Frank Oliver, Minister of Interior, dragged into the mire of supposed scandal. We regard Mr Oliver as one of the strong men of the Dominion, a man who has actually hewed his way as a pioneer across the prairie and as a statesman through the labyrinth of politics. He will undoubtedly clear himself of the charges made against him.

There is a serious aspect of the Oliver incident which has not received due attention, and is the relation of a bank to its customers and in turn to curiosity mongers. A photograph is said to have been taken of a certain bank's ledger page showing part of Mr Oliver's bank account. If that photograph had really been obtained it would reflect little credit upon the institution guarding the account. The photograph was apparently faked in a clever although clumsy manner. So far as we can learn, a minor official of the bank which had Mr Oliver's account, was approached by a certain gentleman, whom we need not name, with an offer of a substantial cash payment and a remunerative and permanent position elsewhere. The bank official, whose method of address is usually of the best, was so astounded at the request that his reply may be recorded as a matter of history. The suppliant was told to "Go to h—."

The branch bank manager was informed as to what was happening in the mean time by some, up to the present, inexplicable manner, certain items of Mr Oliver's account had been seen, noted, and apparently copied upon ledger paper, then photographed. This was the photograph which Mr D R Wilkie, general manager of the Imperial Bank, stated in the most emphatic terms was not an exact photograph of Mr Oliver's account as had been stated. A comparison of the original with the spurious at once reveals this fact.

An investigation is to be held respecting the Oliver charges. No one desires that it shall be limited, except that it shall not pry into private affairs. It is not difficult to draw the line between a man's business and his private matters. Undoubtedly there will be an attempt to bring Mr Oliver's bank account into the limelight, to analyze it, trace the source and the destination of every debit and credit item, and generally to make public a document which concerns only the bank and its customer. This would be a dangerous precedent. The office boy, the business man, the industrial corporation, all consider their bank account a matter of the strictest privacy. Were it to become known that at the slightest show of caprice, envy or spitefulness on the part of enemies, one's bank account might be exposed to public gaze, the whole country would soon be banking their money in stockings, cellars and mattresses. Only when a man is absolutely proved to be criminal should his bank account be shown to others than bank officials and their customers. Even then, the greatest discretion should be observed. It is not a question as to whether or not a man's account is clean. Those who have the most honest accounts would be among the strongest objectors to publicity of their bank account figures.

Calgary Fair Notes

A very interesting and novel feature which will be added to the American Day program on the afternoon of July 4th, will be a drill by the Arab Patrol of Al Kad-see Temple A.A.O.N.M.S., Portland, Oregon. The members of this patrol will, with 250 other Shriners, be stopping over in Calgary on American Day, and after spending an hour or two sight seeing and being entertained to luncheon by the local Temple, will visit the fair grounds, and have very kindly consented to devote a half hour to entertaining the thousands who will be seated in the grandstand on that day. This is one of the most novel pieces of entertainment ever put on by a Canadian fair, and is sure to make a big hit.

The manager has just received word from Messrs B H Bull & Son of Brampton, Ont, the foremost breeders of Jersey in Canada, stating that it is the intention to bring out to the Calgary exhibition between 25 and 30 of their best Jerseys, having made an importation from Jersey Island for this purpose. The exhibit of Jerseys by Messrs Bull & Son has for several years been one of the features of the fair, and is always a special attraction to those interested in dairy stock. Last year they claimed that their sales at the fair were larger than the combined sales of all other breeds which would indicate that there will soon be a large number of Jerseys in Alberta.

CHAPTER XV.

Felix Zary

It would have been a comparatively easy matter for the two friends to have slipped out of the house before the cripple came down the stairs accompanied by the young man called Charles Evors. The front door was still open and there was no one to bar the way. Then it suddenly occurred to Gurdon that by so doing they would betray the secret of the moveable panel which communicated with the house next door.

"It would never do to go away like this," he said hurriedly. "Besides, it is more than likely that we shall want to use that entrance again. We shall have to run the risk of losing sight of the cripple; anything is better than leaving that panel open for the servants to discover in the morning."

Venner could see for himself at once that there was no help for it, so without further discussion on the matter the two men hurried down the stairs and then darted through the hole into the house next door. It was only the work of a moment to replace the panel, but hardly had they done so before they heard a confused murmur of voices on the other side. Gurdon pressed his back to the panel until the noise of the voices ceased.

"That was a pretty close call," he said. "Give me the mouldings and I will try to make them secure without any unnecessary noise. I daresay we can get the nails to fit the same holes. Anyway there must be no hammering, or we shall be pretty sure to rouse the suspicions of the people next door."

It was perhaps fortunate that the mouldings fitted so well, for Gurdon managed to work the nails into the original holes and complete a more or less workmanlike job to his own satisfaction.

"That's a good job well done," Venner said.

"Yes, but what do you do it for? In fact, what are you two gentlemen doing here at all?"

The voice came with a startling suddenness. It was an exceedingly clear, melodious voice, yet with a steely ring to it. The two friends wheeled round sharply to find themselves face to face with an exceedingly tall individual whose length was almost grotesquely added to by the amazing slenderness of his figure. In that respect he was not at all unlike the type of human skeleton which one expects to find in a travelling circus or some show of that kind. The man, moreover, was dressed in deep black, which added to his solemnity. He had an exceedingly long, melancholy face, on both sides of which hung a mass of oily-looking black hair; his nose, too, was long and thin, and a long drooping moustache concealed his mouth. On the whole his appearance was redeemed from the grotesque by an extraordinary pair of black eyes, which were round and large as those of a Persian cat. Despite the man's exceeding thinness, he conveyed a certain suggestion of strength. At that moment he had a handkerchief between his fingers, and Gurdon could see that his wrists were supple and pliable as if they had been made of India rubber. Gurdon had heard that sort of hands before described as conjurer's hands. As he looked at them he half expected to see the handkerchief disappear and an orange or something of that nature take its place. Then the stranger coolly walked across the hall and turned up another of the lights. He seemed to be perfectly at home and conveyed a curious impression to the visitors that he expected to find them there.

"I beg to remind you that you have not yet answered my question," he said. "What are you doing here?"

"Let me answer your question with another," Venner said. "Who are you and what may you be doing here?"

The man smiled in a peculiar fashion. His big black eyes seemed to radiate sparks; they were luminous and full of a vivid fury, though, at the same time the long horselike face never for a moment lost its look of profound dejection. They might have been eyes gleaming behind a dull painted mask.

"We will come to that presently," he said. "For the moment the mention of my name must content you. It is just possible that you have heard the name of Felix Zary."

Venner and Gurdon fairly started. The name of Felix Zary was familiar to them, but only during the last three-quarters of an hour. In fact, that was the name of the man as to whose whereabouts Fenwick had been so anxious. Here was another element in the mystery, which, up to this moment, had not advanced very far towards solution.

"I have heard the name before," Venner said, "but only quite recently—within the last hour, in fact."

"Oh, yes," the stranger said, "I know exactly what you mean. You probably heard it next door when you were listening so intently to the conversation between my friend Chas. Le Fenu the cripple, and that scoundrel who calls himself Fenwick. He is exceedingly anxious to know where I am, though without the smallest intention of benefitting me. And before long, his curiosity will be gratified, but not in the way he thinks."

The latter words came from the speaker's lips with a spitting hiss, such as a cat emits in the presence of a dog. The great round black eyes added intensity to the threat and rendered the feline simile complete. The prophecy boded ill for Fenwick when at length he and Felix Zary came face to face.

"I see my conjecture is quite right," the stranger went on. "And as to you gentlemen, I have asked your names merely as a matter of courtesy. As a matter of fact, I know perfectly well who you are—Mr. Gerald Venner and Mr. James Gurdon. But there is one thing I don't know and that is why you have thrust yourselves into this diabolical business. You must be brave men, or absolutely unconscious of the terrible danger you are running. If either of you are friend of Fenwick's—"

"Not for a moment," Venner cried. "You pay us a poor compliment indeed if you take us to be in any way friendly with that scoundrel."

"And yet you are here," Zary went on. "You are spying on the movements of my friend, Le Fenu. You have contrived to obtain possession of the keys of his house for no other purpose. Why?"

Venner paused before he answered the question. He did not recognize the right of this man to put him through a cross examination. Indeed, it seemed to him, the less he said the better. Perhaps Zary saw something of what was going on in his mind, for his big black eyes smiled, though the dejected visage remained the same.

"I see you do not trust me," he said. "Perhaps you are right to be cautious. Let me ask you another question, assuring you at the same time that I am the friend of Charles Le Fenu and his sisters, and that if necessary I will lay down my life to save them from trouble. Tell me, Mr. Venner, why are you so interested in saving the girl who passes for Fenwick's daughter from her miserable position? Tell me."

Zary came a step or two closer to Venner and looked down into his eyes with a searching yearning expression in those magnetic black eyes. The appeal to Venner was irresistible. The truth rose to his lips; it refused to be kept back.

"Because," he said slowly, "because she is my wife."

A great sigh of relief came from Zary.

"I am glad of that," he said. "Exceedingly glad. And yet I had suspected something of the kind. It is good for me to know that I am with friends, and that you two are only actuated by the best motives. For some days now I have had you under close observation. I followed you here to-night; indeed, I was in the house when you removed those panels. As a matter of fact, Mr. Gurdon's first involuntary visit here absolutely ruined a carefully laid plan of mine for getting Mark Fenwick into my hands. But I will tell you later on all about the mystery of the furnished dining-room and how and why the furniture vanished so strangely. When I followed you here to-night I was quite prepared to shoot you both if necessary, but some strange impulse came over me to speak to you and ask you what you were doing. I am rather glad I did, because I should not like to have a tragedy on my hands. Now would you like to come with me as far as my own rooms, where I shall be in a position to throw a little light upon a dark place or two?"

Venner and Gurdon clutched eagerly at the suggestion. Without further words they passed into the street and would have walked down the steps had not Zary detained them.

"One moment," he whispered. "Hang back in the shadow of the portico. Don't you see that there are two or three men on the steps of the house next door. Ah, I can hear the voice of that scoundrel Fenwick. If only he knew how close to him I am at the present moment! But let us listen—we may hear something useful."

It was very quiet in the Square for the hour was late, and the voices from the portico came clear and distinct to the listeners' ears.

"What is the good of it?" one of the voices said. "Why on earth can't you wait till morning? Le Fenu has got clear away, and there isn't much chance of catching him again in a hurry. It was one of the coolest things I've seen for a long time."

"Oh, he doesn't lack brains, or pluck either," Fenwick said. "I should have been proud of a trick like that myself. I ought to have poisoned him when I had the chance. I ought to have got him out of the way without delay. But it seemed such a safe thing to kidnap him and hide him in his own house, where we could go on with our work without the least danger or interruption from those accursed police. And then, when fate played into our hands and we got hold of Evors as well, it looked as if everything was going our way. How you fools ever contrived to let him get the upper hand of you is more than I can understand."

"It was Jones' fault," another voice growled. "He forgot the drug and we ran clean out of it. Then, I suppose, we got interested over a game of cards, and one way and another, Evors managed to get six or seven hours sleep without having any of that stuff inside him. Bless me, if it wasn't all like a dream, guv'nor. There we were interested in our cards and before we knew where we were our heads were banged together, and I was lying on the floor thinking that the end of the world had come. That fellow has the strength of the very devil himself."

"Poor, weak creature," Fenwick sneered.

"Weak-minded perhaps, and easily led," the first speaker said. "But there is not much the matter with him when it comes to fists."

"We can't stop chattering here all night," Fenwick said. "It is all very well for you men, who don't care so long as you have got something to eat and drink. You would be quite satisfied to sit like a lot of hogs in Le Fenu's house, but he'll certainly be back in the morning with some infernal scheme or other for getting the best of us. Don't you see it is impossible for me any longer to play the part of tenant of a furnished house, now that the owner of the house is at large again? It is a very fortunate thing in a way, too, that I can pass all you people off as my servants. Now get away at once and do as I tell you. As for me, I am going to take a cab as far as the old place by the side of the river. In an hour's time I hope to be on my way to Canterbury. Now, are you quite sure you all know what to do? It's confoundedly awkward to have one's plans upset like this, but a clever man always has an alternative scheme on hand and I've got mine. There, that will do. Be off at once."

"That's all very well, guv'nor," another voice said. "It is easy enough to put the front door on the latch and turn out of the crib, leaving it empty, but what about the girl in the white dress? I ain't very scrupulous as a rule, but it seems rather cruel to leave the poor kid behind and she not more than half right in her head."

"Devil fly away with the girl," Fenwick said passionately. "We can pick her up at any time we want to. Besides, I think I can see a way to arrange for her and a method of getting her out of the house within the next hour. It was no bad thing for men who get their living as we do when some genius invented motor cars. Now do go along or we shall never finish."

Skinning a Sea Otter.

A full grown sea otter is from four to five feet long and perhaps a foot or more wide. When a hunter secures one he loosens the hide from the nose and head, and without cutting it lengthwise at all he pulls the skin down over the body, the hide being so elastic that this is not a difficult job. It is then stretched over a smooth board six and a half feet long, nine inches wide at one end and ten at the other end. Each end of this board is tapered to a point. Another board exactly the same size is then inserted, and the skin is stretched a foot or eighteen inches longer than its original length. A third board half the length of the other is wedged in and the skin tightly tacked at the ends to hold it in place. If any flesh adheres to the skin it is then cut off, and the hide is cured and dried in this condition. In a few days it is taken off the boards and turned fur side out, when it is ready for market.

Birthdays in Sweden.

In this country children, however much they may enjoy birthday celebrations and gifts, are quite content to have them once a year, but the fortunate children of Sweden have three birthdays in the course of every twelve months. First and most important is the real birthday, but the other two are also occasions for festivity and the presentation of small gifts. These two days are those whose names the Swedish boy or girl bears. For every day in the Swedish calendar has its own special name, besides the weekly name which it bears like the days of other countries. To American ears a statement such as that made by a little Swedish girl who was asked as to the date of her birthday, "The 15th of March, 22d of May and 19th of November," has at first a decidedly strange sound.—Harper's.

An exceedingly poisonous variety of centipede is found throughout China in great numbers under old buildings or old logs. The bite is extremely painful and in children sometimes fatal.

The Snow Leopard.

In the highlands of central Asia lives the snow leopard, which never descends below the snow line of the mountains. Its color is a gray, inclining to buff. A few large dark spots show about the lower parts and a number of smaller ones congregate about the head and the neck. The back and the sides are marked with faded looking brown rings or rosettes. The comparatively enormous tail of the animal is fully as long as its body.

The Kangaroo.

Kangaroos are gradually disappearing from Australia. Now the number is only about one-tenth of what it was thirty years ago.

THE TREATY WITH JAPAN

TERMS OF NEW TREATY NOT ACCEPTABLE TO CANADA

Government Decides That It Would Be Better to Allow Present Agreement to Run for a Couple of Years More and Then Make a New One—Question of Free Imports to United Kingdom.

Ottawa.—That the terms of the new treaty between Great Britain and Japan are not suitable to Canadian conditions and that this is the chief reason why Canada declined to adhere to the treaty, is made clear in a return tabled which sets forth the reasons why Canada proposes to continue the existing treaty with Japan for a couple of years in order that it may have an opportunity to make one of its own with the Mikado's empire.

The return shows that since the announcement of the new pact between Great Britain and Japan, T. Nakamura, Japanese consul general at Ottawa, took up with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues the question of the advisability of a Canadian treaty.

The reasons for declining to take this step are set forth in a letter addressed by Hon. S. Fielding to the Japanese consul general in which the Canadian minister says he had observed that the terms and conditions of the treaty do not seem to be in their entirety satisfactory to circumstances of Canada and that in consequence Canadian ministers had some hesitation in advising that immediate adherence to its terms which the Japanese government desires.

Mr. Fielding then proceeds to point out that article 8 of the treaty provides that articles the product of manufacture of the United Kingdom shall not on importation to Japan be subjected to higher custom duties than those specified in schedules attached, also that articles the product of manufacture of Japan shall be free of duty on importation into the United Kingdom.

Mr. Fielding goes on to say that there might be a question in the event of Canada giving adherence to the treaty this schedule would become applicable to Canada. He proceeds: "Granting, however, that it would so apply on examination of details shown that while no doubt well adapted to conditions of trade between Great Britain and Japan, the schedule is not wholly suited to commercial interchange between Japan and Canada."

"Part I. of schedules of example which contains a list of products upon which maximum duties are fixed does not include many products in export of which Canada is largely interested and on the other hand Part II. of the schedule containing a list of Japanese products to which Great Britain agrees to give admission free of duty includes silk and other articles which are dutiable on importation into Canada, although free of customs duty in Great Britain."

"In view of these circumstances," Mr. Fielding intimates, "if a commercial agreement is to be made to suit those conditions it will probably have to be by means of a separate treaty."

Mr. Fielding then states that Canada proposes to avail itself of the clause of new agreement between Great Britain and Japan which provides that in the event of Canada not desiring to adhere to the new treaty a temporary agreement can be made pending forming of a new treaty."

Prince San Chi Defies Police

Shanghai.—According to a custom in China the members of the Imperial Family are above the law. Prince San-Chi has been doing just as he likes recently, fortified with this immunity. It is said that there is not a hygienic law that this interesting person has not broken. In fact, his great recreation seems to have been to defy the police. At length to the endurance of the police there came a limit, and on representations being made to the Minister of the Interior, that official brought the matter under the notice of the Regent, who has not only abolished the "convention," but the Prince's recreations also, and has given instructions that in future he must act as an ordinary citizen, or stand the consequences.

Arbitration Treaties Drafted

Washington, D.C.—The draft of an arbitration treaty was submitted to the British and French governments through their ambassadors here as a basis for negotiating permanent treaties on general lines. Questions of honor and vital interest are to be the subject of arbitration. The Hague tribunal will decide the issues. Questions which both parties agree are not justifiable are to be referred to special commissions to devise a means of settlement. Agreements are to be submitted to the United States senate for ratification. The remainder of the treaty provides the necessary machinery for arbitration.

Working for a Real Settlement

Winnipeg.—C. W. Gordon, looking into the coal miner's trouble, has returned here and is pessimistic regarding the aspect of settlement. He says that the board could have patched up a temporary agreement but that had been done before and what was wanted was a settlement that would last some years. The inquiry would be resumed in three weeks and continued until the men went back to work.

GUARANTEE FOR SECURITIES

Government Assistance for 150 Miles of Roads to Coal Mines

Ottawa, Ont.—Hon. W. S. Fielding gives notice of the following resolution to be considered when the house resumes in July:

To amend chapter six of the act of 1910, the Canadian Northern Alberta Railway Act, under which the governor-general-in-council was authorized to aid and assist the construction of a line of railway from a point at or near Edmonton or Strathcona, thence in a generally southwesterly direction to the coal areas situated at or near Brazeau river and the headquarters of the McLeod river for a distance of 150 miles, such aid and assistance being thereby authorized to be given in the form of a guarantee with the Dominion as guarantor of principal and interest of securities of the company to the extent of $13,000 per mile, for the first 50 miles, and to the extent of $25,000 for the remaining 100 miles of the line to be aided, by substituting in the said act for the lines so authorized to aid the following described line of railway which the company by its charter is empowered to construct, namely: "A line of railway of the Canadian Northern Alberta Railway company from a point at or near Edmonton or St. Albert, Alberta, thence in a generally westerly direction to the coal areas situated at or near Brule Lake in Jasper Park. And to provide that such aid and assistance may be granted the line by these resolutions proposed to be substituted in the said act for the line therein described."

A second clause provided that the securities guaranteed shall be secured by a deed of trust by way of a mortgage or charge approved by the governor-in-council, and that such deeds of trust will grant a first mortgage upon 150 miles of railway and its property.

JEWS FLOCK TO AMERICA

They Will Come to This Country When the Panama Canal is Opened

Los Angeles.—Tens of thousands of Jews will immigrate direct to California on steamers from Europe following the opening of the Panama canal, and the bulk will land in San Francisco, according to Dr. Louis Meyer, of New York, associate editor of The Missionary Review of the World, and authority on the Jewish missionary and immigration situation. Dr. Meyer, who is the guest of Lyman Stewart, president of the Union Oil company, discussed the subject before the Federation club and the Bible institute.

"The Jews, who will come principally from Russia," he said, "will form a valuable addition to this country's population. If properly taken care of they will become fine citizens. The Jews of San Francisco are already preparing for the great influx."

"It will surprise many Americans to know that the Jewish is from 10 to 13 per cent. of all the immigration into this country. Only the Italians come in greater numbers. Now 73 per cent. of the Jewish immigration is from Russia and 63 per cent. settles in New York."

TREATY FOR PEACE IN ORDER

Is Now Ready to Be Presented to the British Government for Approval

Washington, D.C.—The proposed treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain upon which rests the hope of the English-speaking peoples for a permanent peace between the two great nations, and which probably will be a model for peace pacts with other nations, has at last reached the stage where it is to be presented to the British government for its approval.

The state department has been constantly at work upon the treaty, and recently Secretary Knox presented a tentative draft to the cabinet. Apparently it was most satisfactory to the president and his official family as a whole.

Secretary Knox, after the cabinet meeting, announced that the tentative draft would be submitted to Ambassador Bryce for transmission to the British foreign office. Exchanging of notes between the two nations will follow. When the final draft is accepted by both countries the completed treaty will be signed and submitted to the United States senate for approval and ratification.

Alberta and Kootenay Show Activity

Calgary.—The activity of the Alberta and Kootenay railway in the Pincher Creek district is shown by an application which will be before Mr. Justice Scott for expropriation proceedings in that district. The company is asking to expropriate property belonging to G. W. Buchanan, Hanson and Stewart, M. Becker and Russell Main in the Pincher Creek district. The railway is building from Pincher Creek to some mine property fifteen miles from the town. The gentlemen in question will be represented by R. B. Bennett.

Ottawa.—A telegram from the chairman of the Chinese famine committee at Shanghai has reached the department of external affairs, stating that he has been requested by the viceroy of Nanking to thank the Canadian people for relief already sent and expressing the committee's desire to receive another $50,000 if possible.

MIGHT BENEFIT GREAT BRITAIN

THE UNITED KINGDOM AND CANADA'S TARIFF CHANGES

Views Expressed in the British House of Lords on the Reciprocity Treaty—Canada Within Her Statutory Rights in Making Agreement, and the Mother Country Cannot Interfere.

London.—In the House of Lords Earl Selbourne directed the attention to the probable effect of reciprocity on Canadians' birthright. He said that it was but right that they should work out their own salvation, but "when the action of one part of the empire affected the United Kingdom we had a right, indeed it was their responsibility, to consider the question." President Taft's speeches had shown a complete misapprehension as to the ideas of tariff reformers and imperial preferentialists. There was no part of their policy to establish a Chinese wall in any part of the empire. He advocated preference first within the empire and afterwards each part could make its own arrangements.

Ratification of the agreement, the Earl concluded, would place this country in a position of extraordinary difficulty.

Lord Lucas, parliamentary under-secretary to the war office, replying for the government, said the Earl of Selbourne greatly over-estimated the damage to the trade of the United Kingdom and the difficulties that might arise from the reciprocity agreement. Canada was perfectly within her statutory rights and the government could not interfere. The United Kingdom never could offer Canada the same advantages as could the United States, and must give Canada a fair field for promoting her own prosperity as she thought best.

War Secretary Haldane, who recently was elected to the peerage, said it was the policy of the government to give the people of Canada every facility to do the best they could for themselves. The government held that it was not to the disadvantage of the United Kingdom that Canada should develop trade conditions with the United States.

"We hold," continued the secretary, "that Canada, with a great trade of this kind, cannot fail to be a more prosperous Canada, affording a better market for our goods and able to do more trade with ourselves. Therefore, from every point of view, we look upon the step in our interests, as well as in the interests of Canada. It is not for us to interfere in her policies. We do not think it a good thing to attempt to guide or influence the policy of our great Dominions in the matters of trade. We are free traders and we intend to remain free traders."

The Great West Express

Winnipeg.—Beginning on June 4, the prairie country will have a brand new train. It will be known as the Great West Express and will run from Winnipeg to Edmonton, over the line of the Canadian Pacific through Saskatoon.

The train, for which preparations have been in progress for several years, will leave Winnipeg every night at 10.15. It will reach Saskatoon the following day at 3.35 p.m., and will arrive at Strathcona at 6.30 a.m. The running time between the two cities will thus be 32 hours and 15 minutes. Returning the train will leave Strathcona every night at 10 o'clock, will reach Saskatoon at 11.15 the next forenoon, and will arrive in Winnipeg at 6.45 a.m. of the following day. This train will run by way of Yorkton in accordance with the plans adopted some time ago.

U.S. Senate May Kill Reciprocity

Washington, D.C.—The fond hope of President Taft and the reciprocity advocates in both parties, that the Canadian reciprocity bill will be favorably reported to the senate by the finance committee, has been shattered. Furthermore, there is reason to believe that their secondary desire, that if it cannot be favorably reported, it may at least not come out of the committee with an unfavorable vote, will not be realized either, unless there is a marked and unlikely change in the sentiments of the committee. The bill, therefore, begins its career in the open senate with the unusual handicap of an adverse report. Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, said emphatically that he would demand that the committee vote, as a majority of the committee are undoubtedly against the pact.

Doukhobors Buy Nelson Fruit Ranch

Nelson, B.C.—Seventy acres of the eighty-acre Annable ranch at Shore Acres, has just been sold for $28,500, or over $400 an acre. This is said to be the highest price ever paid for a Kootenay ranch. Fifty acres have been bought by the Doukhobor society and the remaining twenty acres by W. A. Clegg and Frank M. Green of Coleman. The remaining ten acres Mr. Annable reserves as a ranch for himself. Mr. Annable paid $17.50 an acre for the land a few years ago.

Mexico City.—It is semi-officially stated that the retirement of Diaz from the presidency will take place May 24 or 25. Vice-President Corral's resignation will be sent by cable, and will be attested by the Mexican minister in Spain.

BRITISH IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

It Is Said Its Establishment Would Cause a Constitutional Revolution

London.—The Morning Post says: "Every state, primitive or modern, has rested on the principle that the units composing it shall acknowledge the obligation of mutual preference, and until this truism is acknowledged by the parent state of the empire, the sessions of the Imperial conference might as well be suspended."

The Standard says: "If the home government meet the overseas premiers in conference with the pleas of non possumus as in 1907, it would stand self-condemned and self-condemned as having betrayed the great Imperial interests entrusted to its keeping."

The Daily News, discussing the forthcoming Imperial conference, says: "The Imperial council of state, composed of representatives of all parts of the Empire, as proposed by New Zealand, could not be reconciled with cabinet government and parliamentary control either here or in the overseas dominions. Its establishment would cause a constitutional revolution in every state of the Empire. Sir Wilfrid Laurier attacked the idea in 1907 and still holds the same view. We assume that the real purpose of the suggestion is to clear the air rather than the hope, or even desire of securing its adoption."

FIERCE FIGHT WITH PIRATES

Engineer Was Captured by the Pirates and Held for Ransom

Victoria, B.C.—Many thrilling incidents connected with the wreck of the Pacific mail liner Asia, at Finger Rock, on April 25, were recounted by arrivals by the steamer Chicago, which reached port from the Orient recently.

Timothy F. Healy, a San Francisco newspaper man, said that a big fleet of Chinese junks descended on the wreck and only a constant fusillade of revolver shots prevented the pirates interfering with the landing of the survivors.

Captain Gaukroger, with others who remained on the wreck, were engaged all night in a regular battle with the Chinese pirates, who rushed the wreck and boarded it despite the revolver fire.

The last boat to leave the wreck was captured by the pirates, in it were A. J. Cozens, a first assistant engineer; Arthur Arundel, boiler tender; three Chinese and one Japanese seamen and some mail. Cozens made a deal to be taken off the American barque and promised a reward of $300. The Chinese consented, secured his money and put back on the wreck.

KNOCKS WESTERN CANADA

Governor Osborne Says Canadian Northwest Cannot Compete with U. S.

Washington.—Reciprocity advocates are wondering what Canadians are thinking of the arguments advanced recently by Governor Osborne, of Michigan, who insisted that Saskatchewan and the Canadian northwest cannot compete at all with the United States northwest.

"The Canadians," he said, "cannot raise crops in rotation. They are far from the sources of fuel, and I have seen stock go through the winter eating snow, and I have also seen stock and people drinking alkali water. I have seen lots of people go out north of Moose Jaw, make lots of money, and then come back to the States. My opinion is that after a time they will all return because they will find the country almost unlivable. I would not live in the northwest of Canada for ten years for the whole of Canada."

Senator McCumber here interrupted:—"Yet many of our people are going into God-forsaken Saskatchewan and raise about twice as much as we do, and are crying to others to come along."

To Curb the Trusts

Washington, D.C.—As indicating the possible effect on legislation of the supreme court on the Standard Oil decision, three bills were introduced in the senate, one by Senator Jones, of Washington, Republican, and the other two by Senators Culbertson, of Texas, and Reid, of Missouri, both Democrats, all look to the amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law, to include all combinations in restraint of trade, regardless of the reasonableness or unreasonableness, and all are suggested by Justice Harland's dissenting view on the Standard Oil case.

Reason the Dominion Objected

Ottawa.—Because the tariff arrangements in the new Anglo-Japanese treaty are not satisfactory to Canada, and a treaty between this country and the land of the Mikado would be more satisfactory, is the reason the Dominion registered a strenuous objection to its enactment, according to a report tabled in the commons.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON IX.—SECOND QUARTER, FOR MAY 28, 1911

Text of the Lesson, Mic. iv, 1-8—Memory Verses, 2, 3—Golden Text, Mic. iv, 3—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Our golden text and its context, which tells of a time when nations shall learn war no more, is found also in Isa. ii, 1-4. The same glorious assurance is found in Ps. xvi, 9, "He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth." It is written in a different form in Isa. xxxii, 1-17, "A king shall reign in righteousness, and the work of righteousness shall be peace."

In Ps. lxxii, 11, we read that "all kings shall fall down before Him; all nations shall serve Him." In Rev. xi, 15, we are told of the time when "the kingdoms of this world shall have become the kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ." It would be well if teachers and scholars would search out the many passages which tell of this kingdom of peace on earth when the Lord shall come in His glory and occupy the throne of David at Jerusalem, ruling in the midst of Israel, and also as King of kings and Lord of lords—King over all the earth. I will suggest a few passages which will lead to many more if any one is willing to search: Isa. ix, 6, 7; Luke i, 31, 32; Zeph. iii, 14, 15; Zech. xiv, 9; Jer. iii, 17; Dan. vii, 27; Ezek. xliii, 7.

Not by the armies of the nations, nor by peace conferences, nor by the church, nor by missions, shall this be brought about; nor in this present age of the world's history, but only by Him concerning whom it is written, "I will overturn, overturn, overturn it... until He come whose right it is, and I will give it Him" (Ezek. xxi, 27).

Not by any nation now existing as such on the face of the earth will He bring peace on earth, but by Israel, soon to be restored and recognized as a nation and to be converted as a nation when they shall see Him coming in glory and shall receive Him as their Messiah. Isaiah's message had special reference to Judah and Jerusalem. Micah's to Samaria and Jerusalem (Isa. i, 1; Mic. i, 1).

The words Israel, Zion, Jerusalem, must always be taken in their plain literal sense unless there is some qualifying phrase or adjective indicating differently. The Zion and Jerusalem of Mic. iii, 12, are the same as the Zion of Mic. iv, 7. It has been overthrown many times; it shall as truly and literally become the throne of the Lord, which He shall build up when He comes in His glory (Ps. cii, 16).

In those days when the glory of the Lord shall be seen in Israel nations shall flow to her as literally as the queen of Sheba and the kings of the earth came to Solomon, or as the wise men from the east brought their treasures to the King of Jews when He was but a babe in Bethlehem (II Chron. ix, 9, 22-24). According to Mic. v, 2, it was predicted that He would be born in Bethlehem, and He was. The same verse says that He would rule in Israel, and though He has never yet done so He will just as truly and literally as He was born in Bethlehem.

From Jerusalem His word has gone forth into all the world to gather out from all the nations a people for His name, His body, the church, to reign with Him when He shall come in His glory, but that was not revealed in Old Testament times nor until after He had come in humiliation proclaiming a kingdom at hand which never came because they killed the King, and thus postponed the kingdom till He shall come again, for the heavens have received Him until the times of restoration of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all His holy prophets since the world began (Acts iii, 20, 21). Then shall (Mic. vii, 20) be fulfilled, "Thou wilt perform the truth to Jacob, and the mercy to Abraham, which Thou hast sworn unto our fathers from the days of old."

Some nations are against Israel to this day, but they know not the thoughts of the Lord, neither understand they His counsel, and do not know that a time is coming when their gain and their substance shall be consecrated unto the Lord of the whole earth, who will then be ruler in Israel. See verses 11 to 13 of our lesson chapter and all of Isa. ix: When this great peace shall have come on earth none shall make Israel afraid any more (verse 4); they shall not see evil any more (Zeph. iii, 15).

As we consider the thousands still being driven from their homes in Russia let us pray more earnestly for the fulfillment of Isa. lxii, 1-7. A great war must come before there can be this good time of war no more, for it is His determination to gather the nations to pour upon them His indignation because of their treatment of His people Israel.

He shall smite the earth with the rod of His mouth and with the breath of His lips shall He slay the wicked (Isa. xi, 4). At His coming in glory with all His saints shall this be, and then shall the last verses of our lesson be fulfilled, "The Lord shall reign over them in Mount Zion from henceforth, even forever." * * * the kingdom shall come to the daughter of Zion." This is more fully described in Rev. xix, 11-16, and it is utterly useless to expect peace on earth, a lasting peace, until "this man shall be the peace" and be great unto the ends of the earth, ruling in Israel as the earthly centre of His Worldwide kingdom.

Pioneering Near Bowden

The Follow Article is Written by an Early Settler, who came to Bowden Sixteen Years Ago and who has Kept a Journal of Events During that Time

CHAPTER I.

The 20th day of April some 16 years ago will be always remembered by me as the green letter day of my start in the homesteading of business in Alberta. I don't have no recollection of doing anything green around Bowden but I do remember that when I stepped in the door of the office of the Bowden Livery, I was met by a man who was the owner of the place. He was a man of about 40 years of age, with a friendly smile and a kind of a "home" look. He was the owner of the place and he was the one who was the first to see me. He was the one who was the first to see me. He was the one who was the first to see me.

Bowden was my jumping off place anyway, so here I landed bag and baggage, on a cold, raw, chilly day. Arrangements were made before hand with my prospective neighbours to meet me with teams at Moore's siding. They were there to a man, all ready to help. Messrs Munroe, Hoover, Dunlap, and West with all the young lads of the neighbourhood on their coyotes. Dan Munroe, Jack Dunlap, Charley Hoover, Charlie and George Grant, who came to help drive the stock.

We loaded up everything damageable and started for the West. Chilled to the bones and as hungry as coyotes. The Brewster House wasn't running then. Moving slowly through the wet swampy trail on the flat, and glad to reach the summit of Eagle Hill, overlooking Eagle Creek, the only valley as yet settled west of the track from Bowden. The warm rays of the sun here gave us better spirits and the rest of the journey was enjoyed. Grant's sluck, our stopping place, was reached before sundown. In it we passed our first night as pioneers of the "Last West". One did not look for comfort in those days, protection from raw winds and rain was considered luxury.

CHAPTER II.

The humble residence was built on the authorized plan, but was still unfinished. The walls were made of round logs, bark on, said to hold the lime or mud plaster better, each log notched at the end to hold the next cross log and so on to the top, poles were used for ceiling, on top of this was hay and above that a thick layer of turf to soak the rain. The floor was laid with common board lumber undressed and laid on round poles for sleepers, and unnailed. A door facing the raw cold wind was kept shut by placing a thick block of wood against it and the spaces between the boards helped the two pane window to admit light. In this abode we spent the first week of our homesteading life.

My next step was to hunt up a suitable location to homestead, so having got astride a wide backed horse, a fate I never had at any time previously, the advantage of doing, I set out for the west at a walk frightened the horse might run while I was on its back. I kept going on enjoying the outing, making my own trail, ahead of known roads or trails, until I came to the river bank, and where a colony of beaver were busy at work preparing a dam. The trees all around had been cut down by them for this purpose. An interested coyote sat on the opposite bank of the river planning no doubt how he could land a beaver, for a change of fare, from the everlasting rabbit. I left these aborigines to attend to their own business, intending some other time, to visit the place.

The rolling prairie land had a peculiar charm for me; I thought less of the distance from the railway than of the picturesque part of country. Surrounding where I stood, for miles around no sign of a person or homestead occupied, one would look in vain for a house, I felt like "lord of all I surveyed," at any rate I could take my choice, Dominion lands free, C.P.R. lands $2.50 per acre and all I wanted was that. From the hill on which I stood overlooking the river, I saw my future home, found the stakes, and numbers, and hurried off to make entry, to Calgary.

Here is Foot Comfort

This is a broad claim to make, but the Scholl "Foot-Eazer" eases feet, provides absolute means of foot comfort. When the arch of the foot is not properly supported—and the modern shoe does not give this required support—the foot tires and aches and pain and become feverish and then there is a twitching and a burning strain on the limbs, and frequently a feeling of fatigue over the whole body. The arch of the foot, where the body's weight is carried, needs a rest.

The Scholl "Foot-Eazer" supports the arch or instep and takes away all muscular strain, equalizing the weight and bearing. Made of German Silver springs, leather covered. Self-adjusting to any foot. Can be changed from one pair of shoes to another and can be worn with comfort by anyone. Women who do housework, or clerks in stores or offices, or anyone whose occupation requires them to do much standing or walking should buy a pair of "Foot-Eazers" today. You can not have restful feet until you do wear them. All sizes, for men and women. Price $2.00 per pair. Endorsed by Physicians—by People who wear them.

BOWDEN

Bowden Defeats Crossfield 5-3

At Crossfield on Tuesday evening before a good turnout Bowden kept up their 1000 per cent in the Rosebud League by defeating the southern town 5-3. The game was called at 7:00 p.m.; one hour and 35 minutes was the time spent in doing the trick. The scores indicate that the game was close which was the case and at all times was marked by good baseball. McBroom was in the box for the locals Sannes doing the receiving. Out of the 27 men who faced McBroom, 15 were struck out and only two hits were recorded against him.

The work of Sannes behind the bat was also deserving of much credit. Only one ball got by him during the game while he kept the opposing base runners close to the racks at all times by his good throwing.

The Crossfield pitcher, Brown, did good work but lacked support by his team mates at critical times in the out field; four errors in left field were responsible for Bowden's runs. The boys found Brown easy to hit but Crossfield in-field fielded well giving their pitcher good support. Only seven men were struck out by Brown.

Against Bowden there was marked down five errors, one costing two runs.

Crossfield drew the first blood by sending a man home in the first innings. This was the only run they secured until the 8th when they sent two men home on a wild throw to first after first and second bases had been filled. The side was then retired and did no more scoring during the rest of the game.

Bowden scored Culver in the second inning and Prowse in the third while in the fifth Culver and Sannes again crossed the plates. Until the ninth no more runs were scored by Bowden when McKim went home on the throw of a long fly, hit by Cornish to the right fielder. This brought Bowden tally up to five runs; Crossfield having three. Dr A E Shore gave the best of satisfaction to both teams as umpire. The following was the runs scored by each team; Bowden Culver 2, Prowse 1, Sannes 1, McKim 1, Crossfield; McLaren 1; Urquhardt 1 Landburg 1.

Score by innings;
Crossfield 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0-3

Innisfail Won

Last Saturday Diamond Park was the scene of one of the most exciting games of baseball that has ever been played there. Innisfail and Bowden met in combat and all through the game the fans were keyed to the highest notch of excitement. The visitors were a good deal stronger than at any time this season and played good ball. Erickson was in the box for Innisfail and was hit pretty hard although most of the hits were fielded in the diamond. Cornish twirled for the home team and pitched a good steady game but received poor support by the rest of his team mates. On the Bowden side the game was a comedy of errors, every player in the team having one or more chalked up against him.

The visitors started the fire works off in the first inning when they sent one man over the plate. They also scored 3 in the fourth, 2 in the fifth, and 1 in the sixth. At the sixth inning Bowden scored a run the score then standing 7-2. In their half of the 7 Bowden sent five men home tying the score. Innisfail then run in 2 scores in the 8th and two in the ninth bringing their tally up to 11 runs. Bowden in the ninth, run in three runs before they were retired by Innisfail. The score then stood 11 to 10. During the 7th and 9th innings the crowd nearly went mad over the game. Score by innings;
Innisfail 1 0 0 3 2 1 0 2 2-11
Bowden 1 0 0 0 0 1 5 0 3-10

The Olds Baseball team defeated Didsbury at Olds on Friday evening last. The game was a very poor exhibition of baseball as the score 15-5 indicates. Only six innings were played. A number from here drove down to see the game and announce that in their opinion Olds have not as strong a team as they had last year. The clubs in the Rosebud League now stand as follows.

	Won	Lost	P. C.
